Perth, Australia (ABN Newswire) - Kagara Limited (ASX:KZL) ('Kagara' or 'the Company') announces that Mark Ashley has advised he is stepping down from his position as a Director of the Company, effective today.

Mr Ashley's decision to step down marks a further step in an ongoing process of restructuring the Kagara Board following the appointment of senior mining executive Geoff Day as the Company's new Managing Director and CEO in March this year and Kim Robinson's decision to relinquish his responsibilities as CEO and move to the role of non-executive Chairman.

'Mark was Kagara's founding Managing Director, who guided the Company through its A$5.25 million IPO and ASX listing and through its subsequent rapid growth,' Mr Robinson said. 'He was instrumental in negotiating some of the key acquisitions which set the Company up to become a leading Australian mid-tier base metals producer and, in more recent years, has provided invaluable advice and input as a non-executive Director.

'On behalf of the Board, management and staff of Kagara, I would like to express my sincerest thanks to Mark for his significant contribution to Kagara since its inception and listing on the ASX in December 1999 and wish him well for the future,' Mr Robinson added.
