GRÜNWALD, Germany, October 22, 2012 /PRNewswire/ -- Tantalus Rare Earths AG ("TRE"), the explorer and developer of a large near surface rare earths project in north western Madagascar, today announces the appointment of new supervisory board members and provides an update on its operational and corporate activities.

Highlights

- A general meeting of shareholders has confirmed the appointment of Prof. Dr. Ernst A. Brugger, Ian Hannam, Ulrich Krauskopf and Thomas Hoyer as new supervisory board members.
- Prof. Dr. Brugger elected Chairman of the supervisory board.
- A prospectus is being prepared for transferring the listing of TRE to a more senior German exchange.
- Exploration activities accelerating and environmental impact studies to commence.

TRE's recently appointed CEO Juergen Schillinger said: "The Company is proud to have attracted a high calibre supervisory board with the track record and expertise to oversee the transformation of the company from explorer to rare earths producer.

"The management of TRE looks forward to working with the supervisory board in accelerating exploration and development of the tantalus deposit as well as commencing the environmental and social impact studies required ahead of mine development."

Mr Schillinger worked until 2011 as a Senior Portfolio Manager at Union Investment, one of the leading asset managers in Europe, where he managed directly or indirectly an investment volume of more than Eur 7 billion.

He thanked also the outgoing management board members Ivan Murphy, Philip Gray, Paul Richards, Lee Goldsmith, Wolfgang Hampel and André Klupsch who had submitted their resignations at the end of the Annual General Meeting.

Details of the new supervisory board members are as follows:

Prof. Dr. Ernst A. Brugger (Chairman)

Prof. Dr. Ernst A. Brugger is president of the board of directors of BHP-Brugger and Partners Ltd, a Zurich-based strategy consultancy specialising in economic sustainability. As initiator of The Sustainability Forum Zürich and the Energy Trialog Switzerland, the consultancy focuses on the practical implementation of sustainability principles in the economy, society and politics. He holds a PhD in economic geography from the University of Zurich and over the past 25 years has been a consultant to businesses and institutions in Europe, Latin America, Africa and Asia. He is the chairman of the board of directors of SV Group AG, BlueOrchard Finance and Precious Woods Holding, as well as a non-executive director of numerous companies, including BG Bonnard & Gardel Holding S.A. and the World Microfinance Forum Geneva (WMFG). In addition, he is president of the foundation board of sanu and honorary member of the Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC).
