About Malbex

Malbex is a gold exploration company led by experienced management and directors with projects in Argentina. In April 2010, Malbex made a near-surface, gold- silver oxide discovery at Del Carmen, its lead project in Argentina.

In October 2013, Malbex released the results of a Canadian National Instrument 43-101 compliant Preliminary Economic Assessment. Inferred resources included in the study were stated as 30.97 million tonnes grading 1.01 g/t gold and 11.0 g/t silver. The PEA contemplates a conventional open pit mining operation with heap-leach gold recovery. Contract mining would be employed in the initial years of mining to pre-strip almost the entire pit (strip ratio in first two years is 8.4:1 reducing to 1.2:1 in later years.). The mine plan would call for the extraction of 37.5 million tonnes of heap leach material at an average grade of 0.87 gram gold per tonne (gpt) yielding 842,000 ounces of recoverable gold. The PEA indicates that the Del Carmen project could generate average annual heap leach gold production of 105,000 oz at $650/oz total cash cost after by-product credits. Capital costs were estimated at US$261 million over life-of-mine and the project showed an pre-tax NPV of US$166 million (17% IRR) using a US$1400 gold price.

The Del Carmen project is located in the El Indio Gold Belt, which contains more than 35 million ounces of gold in current reserves and past production, including Barrick's Veladero mine and Pascua-Lama project. For more information, please visit www.malbex.ca.
