- Development capital expenditure range of $815 - $895 million (drilling, completion, infrastructure and other) with drilling and completion of $725 - $785 million and infrastructure and other of $90 - $110 million
- Expanded hedge profile covering approximately 60% of 2018E oil production volumes at the midpoint
- Expecting 30%-plus annual production growth in 2019 and 2020 with substantial free cash flow generated at a $50 oil price

Steve Gray, Chief Executive Officer, commented, "I am proud of our Company's accomplishments in 2017. We delivered on our annual guidance objectives while nearly doubling the size of the Company, integrating a new operating area in the Delaware Basin and building out the infrastructure and team to accommodate our increased activity levels and production growth in 2018. We continue to see impressive well results in both our Midland and Delaware Basin assets and this increased well productivity enabled us to meet the mid-point of our production guidance despite completing twenty fewer horizontal wells than we originally budgeted.

"We are well positioned for strong returns in 2018 as we continue to increase our capital efficiency levels and accelerate the completion of our drilled but uncompleted wells carried over from last year's drilling program. We also expect to generate cash flow in excess of our development spending by the fourth quarter of 2018 while growing production 35% at the mid-point of our guidance."

Use of Non-GAAP Financial Measures

The Company defines Adjusted EBITDAX as oil and gas revenues including net cash receipts (payments) on settled derivative instruments and premiums paid on put options that settled during the period, less lease operating expenses, production and ad valorem taxes, and general and administrative expenses excluding stock based compensation. Adjusted Net Income deducts from Adjusted EBITDAX depreciation, depletion, and amortization, accretion on asset retirement obligations, exploration expenses, interest expense, stock-based compensation, acquisition costs and adjusted income tax expense.

Management believes Adjusted EBITDAX and Adjusted Net Income are useful because they allow the Company to more effectively evaluate its operating performance and compare the results of its operations from period to period without regard to financing methods or capital structure. The Company excludes the items listed above in arriving at Adjusted EBITDAX and Adjusted Net Income because these amounts can vary substantially from company to company within the Company's industry depending upon accounting methods and book values of assets, capital structures and the method by which the assets were acquired. Adjusted EBITDAX and Adjusted Net Income should not be considered as an alternative to, or more meaningful than, net income as determined in accordance with GAAP or as an indicator of our operating performance or liquidity. Certain items excluded from Adjusted EBITDAX and Adjusted Net Income are significant components in understanding and assessing the Company's financial performance, such as Company's cost of capital and tax structure, as well as the historic costs of depreciable assets, none of which are components of Adjusted EBITDAX. The Company's computations of Adjusted EBITDAX and Adjusted Net Income may not be comparable to other similarly titled measures of other companies.

The following tables include a reconciliation of the non-GAAP financial measures of Adjusted EBITDAX and Adjusted Net Income to the GAAP financial measure of net income.
