Newly appointed Chief Executive Officer, Adam Ritchie said:

"I am excited to accept the role of Chief Executive Officer at MMG. I was attracted to the Company for its vision and commitment to building a North American lithium business. The strong focus on exploring a diverse range of lithium resources in consideration of emerging technologies, the full supply chain and associated carbon footprint is progressive and admirable.

The lithium market is still very young and there is great opportunity for the next wave of producers to provide an enhanced value proposition to the market. The market wants lithium - but it needs a long-term sustainable lithium supply chain. This is our mission.
