HALIFAX, April 24, 2012 - Wade K. Dawe, Chairman of Linear Metals Corporation (TSX: LRM) (OTC: LMTCF) is pleased to announce the appointment of Jim Megann as Linear's President and Chief Executive Officer, effective immediately.

"Jim joined our company last fall and has quickly developed a passion for this industry," stated Mr. Dawe. "He has a clear vision and plan to move this company forward as we endeavor to generate value for our stakeholders. His immediate priorities will be to establish joint venture projects for our properties while strengthening relationships with Linear's investors."

Jim replaces Brian MacEachen who will remain on Linear's Board of Directors, and will assist Jim with the transition.

"Brian has led a number of significant and successful initiatives including the acquisition of a strategic property portfolio in Kenya," said Dawe. "The properties in Kenya have significant exploration potential, and we are pleased Brian will remain a key part of the team."

A key short term objective for Megann will be to find joint venture partners who are committed to unlocking the potential value of the properties. The focus to establish new strategic alliances for all company properties was the basis to rebrand the company as Stockport Exploration Inc.. Stockport is a community in England that created value for its citizens when a massive 27 arch viaduct was built spanning the River Mersey, connecting Stockport with a rail line to London. The viaduct was the largest in the world, and drove the economic and commercial success of Stockport. The viaduct is symbolized in the new company logo.

Pending TSX requirements, the company will begin trading as Stockport Exploration under the ticker 'SPT'.
