Preliminary Results and Core Pictures Available On SLAM Webpages

MIRAMICHI, NEW BRUNSWICK -- (Marketwire) -- 01/10/13 -- SLAM Exploration Ltd. (TSX VENTURE: SXL)(OTCBB: SLMF) ("SLAM") is pleased to announce it has updated its website with previously announced preliminary results from 47 diamond drill holes put down in December, 2012 at its wholly owned Menneval gold project in New Brunswick. Assay results from the initial holes are expected soon.

Core pictures from selected drill holes can be viewed at <http://www.slamresources.com/core-shack/>. This was the first series of diamond drill holes on the Maisie zone, a new gold discovery made by SLAM in summer, 2012. The drilling program has traced the vein system over a 520 m strike length and to a depth of 25 m. The system remains open at depth and along strike. Quartz veins were intersected in 42 of the 47 holes over core intervals range from 0.1 m up to 9.7 m. Visible gold was noted in 6 holes.

The drilling program was designed to delineate a potential near surface resource that would be amenable to open pit mining methods. The relative hole locations and other pertinent information can be viewed at <http://www.slamresources.com/projects/new-brunswick/menneval>. The target vein was identified in a trenching program from which the Company reported numerous sites of visible gold with bonanza grade assays as it traced the vein system over a 700 m strike length in 2012.
