

Kaizen Discovery Completes Acquisition of West Cirque Resources

08.07.2014 | Marketwired

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA -- (Marketwired - Jul 8, 2014) - Matthew Hornor, President and Chief Executive Officer of Kaizen Discovery Inc. (TSX VENTURE:KZD), is pleased to announce that Kaizen has successfully completed the acquisition of West Cirque Resources (TSX VENTURE:WCQ) in an all-share transaction.

Under the terms of the acquisition, originally announced April 16, 2014, each West Cirque shareholder received one-half of one Kaizen common share for each West Cirque common share. Now that the transaction is finalized, former West Cirque shareholders hold approximately 14.7 million common shares, or 9.9%, of the approximately 148.6 million outstanding common shares of Kaizen. West Cirque's common shares ceased trading on the TSX Venture Exchange today following the completion of the transaction.

West Cirque is a Vancouver-based mineral exploration company controlling seven prospective copper-gold porphyry exploration projects in British Columbia, Canada - two of which are subject to an earn-in agreement with Freeport-McMoRan of Canada Limited.

"We are extremely appreciative of the strong support we received from both Kaizen and West Cirque shareholders in completing the transaction," said Mr. Hornor. "We look forward to leveraging the strengths of the two companies and pursuing a systematic and aggressive exploration program and continuing to build shareholder value."

The combination of Kaizen's existing portfolio of exploration projects in Australia and Africa, and West Cirque's portfolio in Canada, establishes a stronger company with an impressive and diverse pipeline of projects," Mr. Hornor added. "Now that the transaction has closed, we can begin immediately working at Aspen Grove and work towards unlocking the potential of this exciting property."

Expected support from strategic partner ITOCHU

ITOCHU Corporation, a leading Japanese trading house, holds a 5.7% stake in Kaizen. A framework agreement entered into between Kaizen and ITOCHU in January 2014 established a collaborative working arrangement under which both companies can evaluate opportunities to explore and develop selected, high-quality, international mineral projects. Based on the signed framework agreement, ITOCHU has the right of first offer to enter into projects introduced by Kaizen.

Kaizen is in advanced and detailed discussions with ITOCHU with regard to ITOCHU's expected participation in West Cirque's exploration projects.

Outline of the West Cirque portfolio of exploration properties

Since 2011, West Cirque has been focused on advancing porphyry copper-gold prospects in British Columbia's main porphyry belts, the Early Mesozoic arcs of the Stikine and Quesnel terranes. In 2013, West Cirque partnered with Freeport-McMoRan of Canada Limited to explore three projects in northern Stikine terrane -Tanzilla, Pliny and Castle. In southern Quesnel terrane, West Cirque has acquired a large land position in the Aspen Grove copper belt, located halfway between the Highland Valley and Copper Mountain mines. Initial exploration of the Aspen Grove project in 2013 resulted in discovery of a significant porphyry copper-gold target at the Par prospect.
