Tennyson Property Returned

Title to the Tennyson property has now been passed back to Teuton from Brigade Holdings, a Hunter Dickinson company. Teuton gave up its subscription rights in Brigade in consideration for the return of the property. Brigade explored the Tennyson property from 2012 to 2013 carrying out a 16-hole drill program and spending over $3 million.

D. Cremonese, P.Eng., President of Teuton commented as follows: "I would like to take this opportunity to thank the people at Brigade/Hunter Dickinson for diligently exploring the Tennyson property, particularly as it was a difficult time to raise money for such projects."

Teuton will be seeking out new option partners for the Tennyson copper-gold porphyry targets.

About Teuton:

Teuton owns interests in more than thirty properties in the prolific "Golden Triangle" area of northwestern British Columbia. It was one of the first companies to adopt what has since become known as the "prospect generator" model. This involves acquiring ground by staking, grooming it, and then optioning it out to third parties. Instead of having one or two properties to explore, work which must be financed internally, prospect generators can have interests in multiple properties because the work is carried out and financed by others.

The Qualified Person for the purposes of this news release is D. Cremonese, P.Eng. Mr. Cremonese, P.Eng., is the President of Teuton Resources Corp. and is not independent of the Company.

Respectfully:

Dino Cremonese, P.Eng., President,
