The holes tested a limited area in the southern portion of the Tuck quartz stockwork zone. True widths are not known. Weather-related and logistical considerations precluded a test of the northern portion of zone (the pictures on the company website are of the northern portion of the zone). This northern area is to be drilled in the 2015 season after preparatory surface work including geological mapping, trenching and rock sampling.

D. Cremonese, P.Eng., President of Teuton commented as follows: "The 2014 drilling confirmed that the Tuck stockwork zone is part of an extensive gold and silver-bearing system. Further work will be required to see if any high-grade structures exist within the broad low-grade rocks. We did not find this high-grade during the limited 2014 program but based on regional considerations we are in the right environment to do so. A much larger program in 2015, targeting the area to the north of that drilled in 2014, is warranted."

The QA/QC protocol system employed during the 2014 exploration program included procedures for monitoring the chain-of-custody of samples and the insertion of blanks and reference standard samples in every batch of samples. Loring Laboratories of Calgary, Alberta, an accredited facility, performed the analyses. The Qualified Person for the purposes of this news release is D. Cremonese, P.Eng., who, as president, is not independent of the Company.

Respectfully:

Dino Cremonese, P.Eng., President,
