

NEW YORK, April 15, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- Vale S.A. (NYSEMKT: VALE) a Brazil based metals and mining company recently released Q4 2014 earnings yet again disappointing investors and analysts alike. The company has been struggling for the past five years, due to the general bearish market for commodities. Vale's significant exposure to iron ore price has caused significant declines in the share price.

Recovery of iron ore is a simple supply and demand problem. The economic slowdown in China has hit the iron ore price quite hard causing prices to fall more than 50% in the past year. Only renewed demand in the raw material can jumpstart the recovery of the red metal; however, that demand is not visible quite yet on the horizon. The unstable economic state of Europe and Asia is just that, unstable. Recovery is sure to happen, sadly, it does not appear to be in the near future.
