

Weyerhaeuser Distribution, a leading North American distributor of building materials, has appointed David Helmers to lead the division as vice president. The promotion comes at a time of growth for Weyerhaeuser Distribution, which over the past year has expanded its sales teams at several facilities and introduced a range of new product lines in multiple regions.

Helmers is a 20-year veteran of Weyerhaeuser, most recently serving as director of sales and business development for Weyerhaeuser Distribution. He has held numerous other leadership positions within the company, including sales and operations process leader, mill manager, and corporate safety and environmental leadership.

With his broad experience and proven leadership across Weyerhaeuser and Weyerhaeuser Distribution, David has not only developed immense expertise and management skills, but also a passion for and knowledge of the supply channel that help us navigate its strengths and challenges," said Adrian Blocker, Senior Vice President, Wood Products. "He is the ideal choice to lead the Distribution team as it continues its growth trajectory and maintains a proven track record of stellar service to our dealer customers around the country."

Prior to Weyerhaeuser, Helmers' career included teaching in the U.S. Navy, project management and engineering consulting. He holds a bachelor of science in civil engineering from the South Dakota School of Mines and Technology and a master of mechanical engineering from the University of Central Florida.
