

Canadian Oil Sands Advises Shareholders to Take No Action as Suncor Extends Expiry of the Same Substantially Undervalued Hostile Bid

09.01.2016 | CNW

CALGARY, Jan. 8, 2016 /CNW/ - Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. (TSX: COS) (OTCQX: COSWF) ("COS" or "Canadian Oil Sands") advises shareholders to take no action on Suncor Energy Inc.'s ("Suncor") altered hostile bid, which simply extends the expiry from January 8, 2016 to January 27, 2016.

"Extending the expiry of Suncor's bid does not change the fact that it is substantially undervalued and opportunistic," said Donald Lowry, Chairman of Canadian Oil Sands. "With the help of external financial and legal advisors, we considered a full range of alternatives, including a full or partial sale to other parties, a royalty financing and were open to any other opportunities, including an approach from Suncor that never materialized. Since nothing about this bid has changed other than the date, we remain steadfast in our conclusion that there is more value for shareholders in a strong, independent Canadian Oil Sands."

Lowry also noted it is not surprising Suncor has failed to meet the minimum tender requirement based on the overwhelming support Canadian Oil Sands has received from both large and small shareholders.

While Suncor will continue to fear monger, shareholders are reminded of the facts:

COS has the financial resources to weather the current downturn.

- We can cover operating and capital costs and pay the dividend in a low oil price environment.
- Canadian Oil Sands has financial flexibility with access to most of a $1.5 billion credit facility. COS' credit facility does not mature until 2019 and COS has no bond maturities until 2019.

COS' key asset, Syncrude, has entered a new low-cost era of production.

- Syncrude has reduced costs in 2015 by more than $1.3 billion &ndash; even more than originally estimated. Operating expenses per barrel are estimated to fall a further eight percent below 2015 levels.
- Syncrude's major capital projects were completed below budget and ahead of schedule, providing decades of production at low sustaining costs.
- The joint venture owners have endorsed a plan led by Imperial Oil and ExxonMobil to increase production. Production is expected to rise in 2016 by 15 percent over 2015.

COS has significant inherent value as an independent company.

- Oil prices will recover. No one is certain when, but these levels are not sustainable.
- COS is uniquely positioned to benefit as a pure play investment with very high leverage to oil prices. Its shares have a 98 percent correlation to oil prices.
- Shareholders have more upside owning 100 percent of COS' reserves than less than eight percent of Suncor's.

The Board continues to take steps to lower costs including the reduction in the number and pay of Directors and the level of G&A expense at COS. Our target for 2016 is a 20 percent reduction to better align with Syncrude cost reductions and the reality of today's oil prices.

To REJECT the Suncor bid, simply TAKE NO ACTION.
