

Uptick Newswire "Stock Day" Interviews CEO on First Cobalt's 2017 Success in the Cobalt Industry

04.12.2017 | GlobeNewswire

Toronto, ON, Dec. 04, 2017 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Uptick Newswire interviews and welcomes a brand new company for its "Stock Day" listeners, Trent Mell the President and CEO of First Cobalt Corp. (TSX VENTURE: FCC)(OTC:FTSSF)("First Cobalt" or the "Company") interviews on the Company's major successes and the big plays First Cobalt has made in the cobalt industry. Starting off the interview, Mr. Mell discusses the difference of First Cobalt, the importance of the team and the field commodities that are significant to First Cobalt's land profitability. He discusses the cash value of cobalt that has spiked in the last year and the value of cobalt in the automobile industry. Continuing the interview, Mr. Mell discusses the Company's three-way merger, the bigger platforms to become one of the largest cobalt owners in the world and the negatives currently circulating within the world of the cobalt industry. Finally, he discusses the difference of the industries grades and what First Cobalt's grade consists of and the value of cobalt in the current industries.

In the tail end of the interview CEO Trent Mell states, "I truly believe in the macro story that underpins our company and I also think we have some of the best assets in the world for our exploration. I've brought together an impressive team for the size of the company that we have. I think the early successes and the pop seen in the stock are the indications of the early success and the nod that we are getting from the investment community." Continuing his statement Trent Mell closes with, "You can see that we have hit a bit of a tipping point because you can see that the general press picked us up. Some of the more broader financial press that don't typically call the mining companies are suddenly taking notice and are looking for expert commentary where they are increasingly turning to FCC. We are in a sweet spot right now and we are going to keep trying to win the confidence of the market and hopefully have continued success with that."
