Update on Peru

Westminster is awaiting approval of its revised NI 43-101 technical report on the copper-gold projects under evaluation for potential acquisition. Results from substantial historical drilling has returned copper and intervals of continuous mineralization. Additionally, areas of copper, gold and silver have been mapped at surface. The large-scale size of these targets has been reported in WMR News Release dated December 11, 2017.

About Westminster

Westminster is in the process of acquiring 100% interest in highly prospective copper properties in Southern Peru. The projects comprise a number of concessions totalling 36,225 hectares on the country's prolific coastal copper belt, source of nearly half of Peru's copper production. Peru is also the world's second largest copper producer by tonnage. Exploration drilling performed to date, through which both IOCG and Porphyry style mineralization have been identified; indicating potential economic viability for the development of the properties.
