

Hecla Agrees to Settle Unfair Labor Practice Charge Related to the Lucky Friday Mine

01.05.2018 | Business Wire

Hecla Mining Company (NYSE:HL) today announced it has reached agreement with the Regional Director of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) to settle the unfair labor practice charge filed by the United Steelworkers in March 2017. This settlement resolves the charge, without any admission of fault, penalties, or payment of back wages.

This action does not resolve the key differences in the on-going labor dispute, nor put the two sides closer to a contract.

As part of the settlement, Hecla has rescinded the terms of its Last, Best and Final Offer implemented in March 2017. Since then, Hecla and United Steelworkers' representatives have met over 20 times, exchanging proposals and reaching agreement on various language changes. A Revised Final Offer was presented to the United Steelworkers' representatives in December 2017, which remains on the table. A hearing regarding the terms implemented in March 2017 would therefore be a waste of resources.

Hecla's production guidance remains unchanged with no material production expected from the Lucky Friday Mine in 2018.
