American Battery Metals Corporation Issues Executive Summary for May 2019

07.05.2019 | ACCESS Newswire

INCLINE VILLAGE, May 7, 2019 - American Battery Metals Corp. (OTCQB: ABML) (http://lithiumore.net) (the "Company"), a premier battery metal exploration and development company based in Nevada, is pleased to provide an Executive Summary for shareholders for May 2019.

New Name, Same Great Company

We have officially changed our name from Oroplata Resources Inc. to American Battery Metals Corp. Changing to ABML demonstrates our dedication to expanding from just lithium into all battery metals. Also key is that we are made in America, unlike most other battery metals companies, which are owned and operated abroad. LithiumOre still remains as a wholly-owned subsidiary company.

Our new stock trading symbol is ABML and the CUSIP will be circulated soon. This is a very exciting time for ABML, and changing our name was an important step in the right direction.

First Exploration and Production Drill In Progress

As of April 30, 2019, the drilling of our first exploration and production well has reached 3,000 feet. This comes two weeks after the drilling began on the 16th of April. We are excited about the progress and will give weekly updates regarding the drilling.

Geophysical Survey Completed

Zonge International, the company responsible for our geophysical surveys, has returned with their preliminary results. We hope to be able to publish and share results within the sixty days.
