

Nickel Creek Provides Update on its Nickel Shāw Project & its Annual General Meeting ("AGM")

05.06.2019 | CNW

TORONTO, June 5, 2019 - Nickel Creek Platinum Corp. (TSX: NCP) ("Nickel Creek" or the "Company") is pleased to provide an update on its 100%-owned flagship Nickel Shāw Project (the "Project") located in the Yukon, Canada and its 2019 AGM.

As disclosed in the news release dated September 25, 2018, the Company had advanced the Project to the point of reaching a fulsome understanding of principal technical aspects of the Project, including resource, geology, metallurgical characteristics and plant design. It was determined that the Project has substantial endowments of nickel, copper, cobalt, platinum and palladium that could be developed at metal prices higher than currently prevalent in the market. In the interim, the Company has been focusing on ways of enhancing the value of Nickel Shāw. To that end, it engaged Mr. Cam Bell, a consultant with over 20 years of nickel exploration experience with companies such as Inco and Vale, to independently review the Project's geological, drilling and geochemical data to determine if areas of higher-grade mineralization could be identified. Mr. Bell, while supporting the Company findings to date, made recommendations for additional geophysics and sampling at targets along trend from the main Wellgreen deposit and the Company is reviewing Mr. Bell's recommendations. In addition, Nickel Creek is advancing environmental baseline studies at the Project and continues with its community engagement program. Nickel Shāw remains Nickel Creek's flagship asset with a significant option on a mix of metals including nickel, copper, cobalt, platinum and palladium. Located in a favourable jurisdiction, this Project is well positioned to benefit from the growing global demand in the battery market.

In addition to carrying out work on its Nickel Shāw Project, the Company has been seeking additional value accretive opportunities for its shareholders. Given the level of activity with due diligence reviews and the timing and nature of a potential financing with significant shareholders, the Company felt it would be prudent and cost effective to postpone its AGM to minimize possible duplication of general and administrative costs associated with the annual meeting.

The Company has received permission from the TSX to move its 2019 AGM to a date which would be no later than September 4, 2019. The specific date will depend on a number of factors being considered internally. The Company will make appropriate and timely announcements once the date is determined.
