

Lilis Energy Receives Additional Extension On Third Borrowing Base Deficiency Payment

30.03.2020 | GlobeNewswire

FORT WORTH, March 30, 2020 - Lilis Energy Inc. (NYSE American: LLEX) (the "Company"), an exploration and production company operating in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeastern New Mexico, announced today that the Company's bank lending group has agreed to amend the existing revolving credit agreement to, among other things, extend the due date for the third installment payment of $1.5 million on the previously announced borrowing base deficiency from March 30, 2020 to April 14, 2020.

As previously reported, the first two borrowing base deficiency installment payments under the amended revolving credit agreement aggregating $17.25 million were funded on February 28, 2020. The due date for the fourth, and final, $6.25 million installment payment remains April 14, 2020.

The Company is continuing to consider transactions to fund the repayment of the borrowing base deficiency on a timely basis. There is no assurance, however, that such transactions will be completed or that the bank group will agree to further deficiency payment extensions. If the Company is unable to repay the borrowing base deficiency as and when required under the revolving credit agreement, an event of default would occur under the revolving credit agreement.
