Nemaska Lithium Completes Share Exchange with Residual Nemaska Lithium

25.11.2020 | GlobeNewswire

Nemaska Lithium Inc. ("Nemaska Lithium" or the "Corporation") announces today that it has completed the previously announced exchange of its common shares, on a one-for-one basis, for common shares of NMX Residual Liabilities Inc. ("Residual Nemaska Lithium"), resulting in Residual Nemaska Lithium having become a successor reporting issuer under applicable Canadian securities laws (the "Exchange"). All issued and outstanding options, warrants and other securities of the Corporation (including securities convertible, exchangeable or exercisable for shares of the Corporation) have also been cancelled for no consideration. The Exchange was effected and completed in accordance with and pursuant to the approval and vesting order of the Superior Court of Qu?bec (Commercial Division) issued on October 15, 2020 (the "Court Order") in connection with the proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act relating to the Corporation and the other subsidiary applicants thereto (the "CCAA Proceedings").

As contemplated by the Court Order with respect to the Exchange, each share certificate (or other evidence of ownership of shares of the Corporation) representing shares of the Corporation are deemed to represent for all purposes the same number of common shares of Residual Nemaska Lithium. Accordingly, shareholders are not required to surrender their share certificates representing shares of the Corporation and no action is required from shareholders to complete the Exchange. In the context of the previously announced transactions structured, in the context of the CCAA Proceedings, as a credit bid from a group that includes the Corporation's largest secured creditor (the "Transaction"), there is no residual value for shareholders of Residual Nemaska Lithium resulting from the Transaction and the Exchange.

Tax Considerations of the Exchange

The following section provides a general summary of certain Canadian federal tax considerations to beneficial owners of common shares of the Corporation (the "Shares") who, for the purposes of the Income Tax Act (Canada) (the "Tax Act") and at all relevant times, are or are deemed to be resident in Canada hold their shares as capital property, deals at arm's length and are not affiliated with Residual Nemaska Lithium ("Canadian Holders").

For purposes of the Tax Act, the Exchange will generally not result, pursuant to subsection 85.1(1) of the Tax Act, in a Canadian Holder realizing a capital loss. A Canadian Holder may, however, elect to realize a capital loss upon the Exchange by including in its return of income for the taxation year in which the Exchange occurred the capital loss, as otherwise determined, resulting from the Exchange.

This summary does not discuss all of the tax considerations potentially applicable to Canadian Holders or to other holders of shares and all holders should consult their own tax advisors as to the federal, provincial and foreign tax considerations applicable to them having regard to their own circumstances. All non-residents of Canada should determine with their own tax advisors if any tax filings are required related to the disposition having regards to their own circumstances.

Questions and Answers About the Exchange

The following are some questions that you, as a shareholder, may have relating to the CCAA proceedings and proposed Transaction and answers to those questions. These questions and answers are of general nature and do not provide all of the information relating to the CCAA proceedings and the Transaction or the matters to be considered in connection thereto and are qualified in their entirety by the more detailed information contained elsewhere in this press release, the proceedings in front of the Superior Court of Qu?bec (Commercial Division) (the "Court") pursuant to the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act ("CCAA") and related documentation, all of which are important and should be reviewed carefully.

Q: As a shareholder, will I receive any payment or distribution in connection with the CCAA proceedings?

A: No. Unfortunately, there is no residual value for shareholders of Residual Nemaska Lithium. Shareholders will not receive any payments for, or distributions on, their shares in connection with the CCAA proceedings.

Q: Why are my shares of Nemaska Lithium being exchanged?

A: Your shares are being exchanged (on a one-for-one basis for common shares of Residual Nemaska Lithium) as part of a reorganization of the Corporation and its affiliates. However, as indicated above, unfortunately there is no residual value for shareholders of Residual Nemaska Lithium in connection with the CCAA proceedings.

Q: Do I need to do anything to complete the exchange of my shares or contact my broker?

A: No. The context of the transaction provides an automatic exchange of shares and no action is required from shareholders to complete the Exchange. Following the Exchange, each share certificate (or other evidence of ownership of shares of the Corporation) representing shares of the Corporation shall be deemed to represent for all purposes the same number of common shares of Residual Nemaska Lithium. Accordingly, shareholders will not be required to surrender their share certificates representing shares of the Corporation.

Q: Will the common shares of Residual Nemaska Lithium, which I will receive as a result of the Exchange, have any value?

A: The common shares of Residual Nemaska Lithium will not be of any value. The Exchange is only made for reorganization purposes, and Residual Nemaska Lithium will not conduct any business activities.

Q: How can I claim my tax losses?

A: Generally, a shareholder may elect to realize a capital loss upon the Exchange by including in its income tax return for the taxation year in which the Exchange occurred the capital loss resulting from the Exchange. It is important to understand that the automatic exchange of shares upon the proposed transaction results in the deferral of the capital loss to the shareholder on his or her shares unless the shareholder elects to include any portion of the capital loss otherwise determined, in computing its income for the relevant taxation year. For this purpose, no tax form, tax slips or other similar documentation will be provided to any such shareholder. It is the shareholder's sole responsibility to elect to realize the capital loss otherwise determined.

In any cases, shareholders should consult their own tax advisors as to the possibility of realizing a capital loss upon the Exchange as well as to obtain assistance and advice in determining the capital loss otherwise realized upon the Exchange.

Q: If I am a non-resident of Canada, what do I need to do?

A: The Corporation makes available on www.sedar.com and on the website of PricewaterhouseCoopers Inc. (the "Monitor") certain tax documentation and forms that may be required to be completed and filed, within 10 days following the Exchange, by certain shareholders, option holders or warrant holders, as applicable, which are non-resident of Canada. All non-residents of Canada should determine with their own tax advisors if any tax filings are required related to the disposition having regards to their own circumstances.

Q: Who can I call if I have any questions?

A: You may call 514-205-5698, a number set up by the Monitor, for any questions or additional information. You should also consult with your own tax advisors as to the tax considerations resulting from the Exchange.

Next Steps in the CCAA Restructuring

The Exchange is completed four business days before the closing date of the Transaction. The Corporation will confirm by press release once the closing of the Transaction occurs.

As mentioned above, the Court also approved procedures under the CCAA in order for Residual Nemaska Lithium and its subsidiary, NMX Residual Assets Inc. to file and submit, following closing of the Transaction, a plan of compromise or arrangement to its creditors in respect of certain excluded cash of the Corporation on hand at closing, subject to certain adjustments and certain excluded assets.

More information regarding the Corporation's situation, decisions or actions will continue to be provided on an ongoing basis, as required by applicable law or as may be determined by the Corporation or the Court.
