The company continues to advance its brownfield exploration, completing 2,178 m of diamond drilling, of which 1,718 m corresponds to underground infill drilling and 460 m to drilling from surface testing targets close to the mining operations.

During September, underground development at both mines continued with 1,035 meters of total advance (vertical, horizontal and in ramps). At the Guaico mine, development was focused on opening a new production base level (985) and deepening the mine access. Development at the Guayabito mine was focused on known structures laterally along strike and opening a new production base level (1,327).

"Thanks to the development rate of over 1,000 m during the last five months, we have reached new production levels in both mines, which guarantees the replacement of currently mined resources and production for the coming months," stated Mr. Gonzalo de Losada, president and CEO of Antioquia Gold.

Readers should be cautioned that the Corporation's decision to move forward with the construction and production of the Cisneros Mine is not based on the results of any pre-feasibility study or feasibility study of mineral resources demonstrating economic or technical viability. Readers are referred to the Cisneros Report for details on independently verified mineral resources on the Cisneros Project. Since 2013, the Corporation has undertaken exploration and development activities; and after taking into consideration various factors, including but not limited to: the exploration and development results to date, technical information developed internally, the availability of funding, the low starting costs as estimated internally by the Corporation's management, the Corporation is of the view that the establishment of mineral reserves, the commissioning of a pre-feasibility study or feasibility study at this stage is not necessary, and that the most responsible utilization of the Corporation's resources is to proceed with the development and construction of the mine. Readers are cautioned that due to the lack of pre-feasibility study or feasibility study, there is increased uncertainty and higher risk of economic and technical failure associated with the Corporation's decision. In particular, there is additional risk that mineral grades will be lower than expected, the risk that construction or ongoing mining operations will be more difficult or more expensive than management expected. Production and economic variables may vary considerably, due to the absence of a detailed economic and technical analysis in accordance with NI 43-101. Project failure may materially adversely impact the Corporation's future profitability, its ability to repay existing loans, and its overall ability to continue as a going concern.
