MANAGEMENT COMMENTS

"I am pleased with our team's performance during 2023, efforts which continue advancing the Company's daily goal of unlocking shareholder value," said Ryan Smith, U.S. Energy's Chief Executive Officer. "U.S. Energy's track record of successfully integrating the Company's previous acquisitions has resulted in a more efficient and lower declining asset base today, as shown in the operating results and cost structure of the Company. As a result, U.S. Energy's strong, de-levered balance sheet and predictable production profile are well positioned to support the Company's growth initiatives while enabling management to allocate capital to the highest rate of return projects. As we move forward through 2024, we believe maintaining capital allocation discipline, exploiting organic growth initiatives, and using a portion of free cash flow to support shareholder returns is the right combination in today's environment to drive value creation for the Company's shareholders."

SHAREHOLDER RETURNS PROGRAM UPDATE

Since the beginning of the Company's share repurchase program in May 2023 through February 2024, U.S. Energy has repurchased greater than 0.6 million shares of common stock at an average price of $1.18 per share, representing greater than 2% of outstanding shares. The Company's share repurchase activity consists of approximately 0.3 million shares repurchased at $1.27 per share during 2023, and 0.3 million shares repurchased at an average of $1.08 per share subsequent to year end.

On March 19, 2023, the Company's Board of Directors authorized and approved an extension of the ongoing share repurchase program for up to $5.0 million, which was set to expire June 30, 2024. The repurchase program is now scheduled to expire June 30, 2025. As of this filing, a total of up to $4.2 million remains available under the repurchase program for future repurchases.

ADJUSTED EBITDA RECONCILIATION

In addition to our results calculated under generally accepted accounting principles in the United States ("GAAP"), in this earnings release we also present Adjusted EBITDA. Adjusted EBITDA is a "non-GAAP financial measure" presented as supplemental measures of the Company's performance. It is not presented in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States, or GAAP. The Company defines Adjusted EBITDA as net income (loss), plus net interest expense, net unrealized loss (gain) on change in fair value of derivatives, income tax (benefit) expense, deferred income taxes, depreciation, depletion, accretion and amortization, one-time costs associated with completed transactions and the associated assumed derivative contracts, non-cash share-based compensation, transaction related expenses, transaction related acquired realized derivative loss (gain), and loss (gain) on marketable securities. Company management believes this presentation is relevant and useful because it helps investors understand U.S. Energy's operating performance and makes it easier to compare its results with those of other companies that have different financing, capital and tax structures. Adjusted EBITDA is presented because we believe it provides additional useful information to investors due to the various noncash items during the period. Adjusted EBITDA has limitations as an analytical tool, and you should not consider it in isolation, or as a substitute for analysis of our operating results as reported under GAAP. Some of these limitations are: Adjusted EBITDA does not reflect cash expenditures, or future requirements for capital expenditures, or contractual commitments; Adjusted EBITDA does not reflect changes in, or cash requirements for, working capital needs; Adjusted EBITDA does not reflect the significant interest expense, or the cash requirements necessary to service interest or principal payments, on debt or cash income tax payments; although depreciation and amortization are noncash charges, the assets being depreciated and amortized will often have to be replaced in the future, and Adjusted EBITDA does not reflect any cash requirements for such replacements; and other companies in this industry may calculate Adjusted EBITDA differently than the Company does, limiting its usefulness as a comparative measure.

The Company's presentation of this measure should not be construed as an inference that future results will be unaffected by unusual or nonrecurring items. We compensate for these limitations by providing a reconciliation of this non-GAAP measure to the most comparable GAAP measure, below. We encourage investors and others to review our business, results of operations, and financial information in their entirety, not to rely on any single financial measure, and to view this non-GAAP measure in conjunction with the most directly comparable GAAP financial measure.
