CENTENNIAL, September 12, 2025 - NioCorp Developments Ltd. ("NioCorp" or the "Company") (NASDAQ:NB), a leading U.S. critical minerals developer, is pleased to announce that it will participate in a live investor webcast on September 24, 2025, at 4:15 PM Eastern.

Headlining the event will be NioCorp Chairman and CEO Mark Smith and Chief Operating Officer Scott Honan. The pair will provide investors with an update on the Company's Elk Creek Critical Minerals Project in Nebraska (the "Elk Creek Project"), the nation's only critical minerals project rich in niobium, scandium, titanium, and rare earths and which is fully permitted for construction, has completed Feasibility Study-level metallurgy for its potential products, and has an estimated Mineral Resource supported by a Regulation S-K 1300-compliant Technical Report Summary.

Messrs. Smith and Honan will discuss NioCorp's unique role in helping to secure a resilient domestic supply chain for critical materials essential to clean energy, defense, and advanced manufacturing sectors. They will also provide updates on the Company's strategic financing initiatives, including a recently announced award of up to $10 million from the U.S. Department of Defense under Title III of the Defense Production Act. This funding is intended to accelerate the development of a domestic scandium supply chain and support ongoing efforts to secure up to $800 million in potential project debt financing from the U.S. Export-Import Bank.

ABOUT NIOCORP

NioCorp is developing the Elk Creek Project, which is expected to produce niobium, scandium, and titanium. The company is also assessing the potential to produce several rare earth elements from the project. Niobium is used to create specialty alloys and High-Strength, Low-Alloy ("HSLA") steel, a lighter, stronger steel used in automotive, structural, and pipeline applications. Scandium is a specialty metal that can be combined with aluminum to make alloys with increased strength and better corrosion resistance. It is also a critical component of advanced solid oxide fuel cells. Titanium is used in various lightweight alloys and is a key ingredient in pigments for paper, paint, and plastics. It is also utilized in aerospace, armor, and medical implants. Magnetic rare earths, such as neodymium, praseodymium, terbium, and dysprosium, are essential for making neodymium-iron-boron magnets, which are used in many defense and civilian applications.
