Vancouver, February 6, 2026 - Sasquatch Resources Corp. (CSE: SASQ) ("Sasquatch" or the "Company") is pleased to announce that it has appointed Jill Doucette as a Board Advisor and hired her company, Synergy Enterprises ("Synergy") as an environmental consultant.

Jill Doucette founded Synergy, an environmental consultancy specializing in carbon accounting and tailored environmental planning and strategy, in 2008, following her Bachelor of Science in Biology from the University of Victoria. Motivated by a clear gap between academic research and real-world climate action, she set out to bridge the gap between theory and practice. Since then, Jill has become a recognized leader at the intersection of business and sustainability, driven by a belief that industry, communities, and organizations can mobilize toward a low-carbon future.

Through Synergy, Jill and her team empower businesses to lead in corporate climate action. By supporting organizations to take decisive, credible steps on climate change, Synergy helps reduce environmental impact while strengthening long-term resilience through operational efficiencies and future-proofing strategies.

Synergy has worked across a wide range of sectors, including clean technology, aviation, maritime, and critical minerals. In the mining sector specifically, Synergy has worked with companies such as Magna Mining, Fireweed Metals, and Foran.

Peter Smith, Sasquatch CEO, commented, "We believe that Jill will have an excellent ongoing impact on the Sasquatch board of directors and our related decision making for the foreseeable future, and that Synergy will provide us with an outstanding framework that highlights the positive environmental impacts our focus on legacy mine sites and waste-rock can have for Vancouver Island, British Columbia, and beyond. Our approach creates a highly efficient method for adding critical and other elements to the supply chain without the need to create new mines or advanced processing infrastructure, all while also addressing significant environmental hazards that exist at legacy mine sites today. In BC alone, there are some 2000 legacy mine sites, with some already in Sasquatch's project pipeline, and we expect there are tens of thousands of such opportunities world-wide."
