Jed Richardson, President and CEO of Trigon Metals, commented:

"The steady stream of capital from the sale of our interest in the Kombat Mine, provides non-dilutive financing for our Moroccan exploration. We are looking forward to the first results out of our district-scale silver-polymetallic Addana Project. We have completed camp set up and access is cleared to drilling sites at Addana. Geosond is on site with a drill rig, and we are excited to begin unlocking the potential of our highly prospective land package, as we pivot from Trigon Metals to Safi Silver."

The Addana Project is situated within a geologically prospective region known for hosting significant polymetallic mineralization, including silver, copper, and associated metals. The current drilling campaign is designed to test priority targets identified through historical data compilation and recent fieldwork.

Trigon remains focused on disciplined capital allocation and value creation as it advances its Moroccan portfolio.
