Samuel Pelaez, the Company's President, CEO, CIO, and Director stated: "Commodities advanced broadly during April, with the U.S. dollar index giving up the year's advance. Seasonal patterns remain influential even as the news flow continues to be dominated by the conflict in Iran. Commodity equities underperformed their respective commodity references. At Olive, we have reduced our gross exposure to commodity equities as the global situation remains unstable, while the major seasonal tailwinds begin to wind down."

Derek Macpherson, the Company's Executive Chairman stated: "As a result of significant outperformance of Olive's portfolio versus resource indices, the portfolio has been able to recover the majority of losses from the month of March. Of note, outperformance from Aurion Resources, which is the process of being acquired for cash by Agnico Eagle and Omai Gold Mines, where regional M&A activity and an updated resource pushed the stock higher, drove the portfolio. Notably, as the result of ongoing normal course issuer bid in March, on a per share basis, Olive has recovered to its end of February value."

Normal Course Issuer Bid ("NCIB")
