03:54 Uhr | ABN Newswire

Perth, Australia - Deep Yellow Ltd. (ASX:DYL) (FRA:JMI) (OTCMKTS:DYLLF), a leading uranium development company, today outlined its strategy to become a significant global uranium producer at the UBS Uranium Day conference.

In a presentation titled "Building a Global Uranium Company - People, Pounds & Pathway to Production", Managing Director & CEO Greg Field, CFO Craig Barnes, and Head of Business Development Andrew Mirco detailed the Company's advanced position.

Key Highlights:

Large resource base: Deep Yellow holds one of the largest uranium resource portfolios among ASX-listed companies, with over 430Mlbs U3O8 across its projects (Tumas, Mulga Rock, Omahola, and Alligator River).

Two Tier-1 advanced projects:

- Tumas Project (Namibia): 118Mlbs resource (one of the largest undeveloped uranium projects globally). DFS completed, fully permitted with 20-year mining licence. Targeting 3.6Mlbs U3O8 pa plus vanadium by-product over a 30+ year mine life. Early construction works are well advanced (detailed engineering >70% complete). FID deferred pending improved contracting environment.

- Mulga Rock Project (Western Australia): 104.8Mlbs resource (updated 2024). Only uranium project in WA to achieve "Substantial Commencement". Significant upside in critical minerals (REE, Co, Cu, Ni). DFS revision underway.

Proven execution team: Strong uranium and project delivery experience from Rio Tinto (including Rossing and Ranger), Paladin Energy, and other major projects.

Strong balance sheet: ~A$1.6 billion market capitalisation (as at mid-May 2026) and A$172 million cash (as at 31 March 2026). Well supported by major shareholders including Sprott and Paradise.

Clear production pathway: Positioned for near-term development with potential combined output >7Mlbs pa from Tumas and Mulga Rock, plus further growth from the project pipeline.

Deep Yellow is well positioned to benefit from the strengthening uranium market while retaining full control over development and contracting flexibility.
